BUILDPRO TIPS

STAY SAFE, PLAN AHEAD!

Is your jobsite covered?
Stay ahead of the SoCal weather.

Anticipate weather disruptions by having essential supplies available on-site. This could include extra tarps, straw wattles for flood prevention, sump pumps, or even portable heaters for maintaining comfortable working temperatures.

Having these supplies on hand allows you to react quickly and minimize downtime.

5 tips to stay productive and safe during wet weather.

1. Flood Prevention.

Assess flood risks and ensure both permanent and temporary drainage systems are installed, maintained, and free of blockages before heavy rains or flooding occur.

2. Protect Finished Work.

Avoid installing finished materials (drywall, flooring, millwork) until windows and doors are sealed, the roof is secured, and the building is watertight. Use temporary coverings if necessary.

3. Delay Subgrade Equipment.

Postpone the installation of high-value subgrade equipment (e.g., electrical switchgear) until drainage systems are fully operational.

4. Emergency Planning.

Develop a site-specific emergency response plan, including cleanup kits and trained personnel. Arrange third-party contractors for recovery, with appropriate contractual agreements in place.

5. Minimize Water Damage Risks.

Heavy rains entering through unfinished windows, doors, or obstructed roof drains need to be identified and sealed using plastic sheeting.

6. Monitor Weather Conditions.

Stay proactive by utilizing weather apps and forecasts to track potential storms or adverse conditions. Anticipating rain or flooding allows for effective planning and minimizes project disruptions and potential loss.

SAFETY DOESN'T HAPPEN BY ACCIDENT.

PERMEABLE PAVING STONES

Capturing water (and LEED® points)

Managing Stormwater Runoff.

Angelus permeable pavers are an excellent choice for areas where reducing stormwater runoff is a priority. They allow water to naturally percolate back into the ground, promoting groundwater regeneration, controlling erosion, and improving stormwater quality.

Angelus pavers meet ADA requirements, making them suitable for a variety of applications, and are eligible for LEED® credits under the U.S. Green Building Council guidelines, supporting sustainable design.

Give the RJ's team a call to discuss how to permeable pavers can benefit your upcoming project.
